

The longitudinal spread of one of the relief camps along the canal embankment

SSVK secretary leads his volunteers in serving food at one of the camps

Buckets and utensils for distribution

A government run relief camp

The only link to the outside world for the marooned villagers

Non Formal Education Centre in session at a relief camp

Children being fed milk and biscuits at one camp

SSVK Volunteers prepare milk for distribution

Camp inmates having their meal at one camp

Camp inmates having their meal at another camp

Camp inmates being briefed on use of ORS by the health volunteer

Women in possession of ploythene sheets provided by UNICEF

Women in possession of ploythene sheets provided by Krishna Arpanam

Women in possession of clothes provided by Tech Mahindra

Women in possession of buckets provided by Goonj

Women in possession of utensils provided by Goonj

Tractors queue up for carrying provisions to the camp-sites

At one of the camps set up by United Way of Mumbai

Children line up for their evening meal in the light of the gas lamp

A community kitchen at work post sunset

The entrance to the camp set up by Krishna Arpanam

SSVK volunteers in a meeting at the camp site

Volunteers sprinkle bleaching powder to sanitise the camp surroundings

A young girl washes her utensil at a newly installed hand pump

Camp inmates having their meal at one camp next to the community kitchen

Camp inmates having their meal next to their makeshift shelters at one of the relief camps

Newly arrived inmates recourse to self-help while awaiting their turn to receive polythene sheets